GOOD ROADS DEMONSTRATION

The Outcome of Run Between Alexandria and Middleburg

On Thursday, July 15, a demonstration load was made from Middleburg, Loudoun County, into Alexandria in the interest of the ship by truck—good roads movement.

S. W. Longworth, Washington Manager of the Firestone Ship by Truck Bureau, conducted the demonstration. Captain Evans, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, made the trip to analyze and survey conditions through this section. Mr. W. J. Morphey, representative of the Garford truck in this territory, drove a one-and-a half ton Garford in the interest of this program, while Mr. Charles F. Coffey, of King and Lee Streets, accompanied the party to purchase the produce obtainable.

This practical demonstration was undertaken at this time in the interest of the development of the Little Falls Turnpike from Alexandria to Fairfax Courthouse and through to Aldie, where a good road connects and runs through Middleburg. This is the direct line to Winchester and is the route to be known as the Robert Lee Memorial Highway under the present plans of Dr. S. M. Johnson, General Director of the Lee Highway Association. With the opening of this route, an all-year line of travel may be had for tourists and general transportation going south, or vice versa in their progress north.

Years ago. Alexandria was referred to with pride as a great shipping point for grain, tobacco, and other products from the fields of Virginia to foreign countries. But, as the railroads made their inway through the state, these products were diverted to other points. Today, the railroads can-

ICE PLANT CLOSED BECAUSE NO COAL

FEAR NO ICE FAMINE

Will Furnish Local Ice Supply From Potomac Yards Plant Which Will Be Ample—Capacity 180 Tons Daily

Owing to a shortage of coal the Mutual Ice Company this afternoon closed down its plant at the foot of Cameron street. This plant will remain closed for the remainder of the season. Its output was forty tons per day.

Harry Hammond, secretary-treasurer of the Mutual Ice Company, stated this afternoon to a representative of The Gazette that the output at its Potomac yards plant will be ample to take care of the city's needs together with the supply already on hand. The output of the Potomac yards plant is 180 tons daily.

The only difficulty Mr. Hammond explained that might be encountered would be in securing sufficient coal to keep its plant at the Potomac yards going. However, if a sufficient supply of coal is received he stated that Alexandria need have no fear of an ice famine and the local wants will be fully taken care of.

FLAMING OIL FLOWS

Bolt Sets Tank Afire Near Baltimore —Hundreds of Homes in Peril

Baltimore, Md., July 20—Since noon yesterday, when lightning struck two large tanks containing thousands of barrels of crude and light oil at the plant of the United States Asphalt Refining Company, Wagner's Point, south of this city, firemen have been fighting desperately to save surrounding property last night the flames were shooting a hundred feet in the air and blazing oil was running in the roadways. Two blocks of two-story houses, the homes of workmen, are burning, and many more are in danger.

The burning oil is also flowing toward the Texas Oil Company's plant adjoining. All hope of extinguishing the burning oil was abandoned this afternoon as the water supply was inadequate, and the firemen were directed to exert all their efforts to saving the dwelling houses. Hundreds of families, residents of Fairfield and Wagner's Point, became frantic with fear and moved all their household belongings to the streets. The aggregate losses to the companies is estimated at $700,000.

The two tanks were struck by lightning almost simultaneously. One contained 55,000 barrels of crude oil. The second tank exploded and the force of the shock was so great that the roof was hurled into the street about 200-feet.

WAGE VERDICT TODAY

Union Employes Prepared For Walkout, Involving Great Area

Chicago, July 20.—Union railroad employes completed their preparations yesterday to do one of three things as soon as the Federal Labor Board makes its wage award at 10 a. m. today.

The men have asked for wage increases totaling $1,000,000,000 a year. They will be in session tomorrow to consider the award as soon as a copy is rushed to them from the labor board's offices.

If they get all they asked, they will, of course, accept it.

If they get 6 per cent of what they ask, they will refer the matter to the men for a referendum vote. It will take several days to complete such a vote, and in the meantime their answer will be delayed.

If they get less than 60 per cent they will, in all likelihood, call a general strike.

ATTACK ON JAIL

North Carolina Troops Use Machine Guns Against Masked Mob

Durham, N. C., July 20.—Jim Ray, 45, of Graham, was killed Willie Phillips, of Graham, seriously injured, and Clem Bradshaw of Haw River, slightly wounded last night, when a masked mob attempted to storm the Alamance county jail, where three negroes, charged with assault on a white woman, are held, according to a statement made by Capt. Marion B. Fowler, commanding the Durham machine gun company, guarding the jail.

The man killed and the two men injured, it is declared, were not members of the mob.

The mob that stormed the jail was made up of about 50 men. They surrounded the jail and made a concerted attack, Capt. Fowler said. As they ran toward the pail they emptied revolvers and rifles at the building.

The soldiers and machine guns had been placed inside the building, and by order of Capt. Fowler they returned the fire. The battle lasted for about three minutes.

More than 100 shots were fired. "We used both the machine guns and side arms," Capt. Fowler said over the telephone.

Cumberland, Md., July 20.—Despondent over ill health, Mrs. Bessie Fraley, 38 years old, wife of a Baltimore and Ohio telegraph operator, committed suicide in the parlor of her home yesterday afternoon by shooting herself through the breast with her husband's revolver.

Running into the room when he heard the fatal shot, Harlan, the dead woman's 7-year-old son, took the smoking weapon from her hand as she lay on the couch where she had fallen. The child, in his excitement, pulled the trigger and barely escaped serious injury when the charge from another chamber passed near his head.

Mrs. Fraley received serious injuries in an automobile accident last April. Resulting from these, her mind is believed to have been deranged.

NEGRO WILL NOT HANG

President Commutes Death Sentence to Imprisonment for Assault

Washington, July 20.—Louis Randall, colored, who was convicted of feloniously assaulting Mrs. Bessie Gleason and attempting to assault Miss Louise Simmons, will not be hanged Thursday, the date set for his execution by the court, but will serve a term of forty-five years in prison instead, according to an announcement yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Paul B. Cromelin.

The jail authorities have been notified that the President has acted favorably on the petition for a commutation of the death sentence.

Randall is alleged to have assaulted Mrs. Gleason June 25, 1919, on Connecticut avenue northwest, and five days later he is alleged to have attempted to assault Miss Simmons near Takoma Park.

He was sentenced to serve fifteen years on the latter charge. The commutation of the death sentence calls for a sentence of thirty years at the expiration of the fifteen-year sentence.

WOULD BE GOVERNOR

Dry Leader Announces He May Be Candidate Next Year

Richmond, Va., July 20.—Addressed to friends in public life, letters were received here yesterday from State Senator G. Walter Mapp, Accomac, author of Virginia's prohibition law, saying that the writer was seriously debating entering actively the campaign for governor and requesting advice as to the advisability of his doing so.

In the letter Senator Mapp said that he has received requests from many sections of Virginia, urging him to announce his candidacy. Further he said: "In the main these requests are coming from persons who hold the same views you and I do upon moral and social questions and who are opposed to Virginia's adopting a reactionary policy along these lines. While such a contest would involve a large expenditure of time, energy and money on my part, I am not unwilling to make the necessary sacrifice if a sufficient number of the forward looking people of the State are willing to co-operate."

So far, Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, who came out as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor several months ago, has had the field all to himself. Well informed political observers here believe that either Senator Mapp or Representative Flood will be his opponent in the race and that it will soon be settled as to who is to run.

RIGHT TO HOLD AUTO

Owner Seeks to Recover Car Confiscated With Booze Cargo

Richmond, Va., July 20.—An odd twist in Virginia law may enable O. E. Buchhola, a Washington hotel proprietor, to recover a touring car seized by the Richmond police last year when the chauffeur was arrested charged with bringing a cargo of contraband liquor into the State

At that time the State prohibition laws provided that a car used in illegal liquor traffice should be sold and the proceeds turned over to the treasury. Buchholz resisted this interpretation and appealed to the Virginia Supreme Court, which ruled against him

Hardly had this decision been made when the statute was revised. The new ruling provided that a car used without the knowledge and consent of the owner would not be confiscated. It further stipulated that the revised act should be applicable to any case of that nature which was still pending at the time of its passage.

Attorney M. Carter Hall, of Washington who represents Buchholz, now contends that the issue involved still was pending even after the Virginia Supreme Court had ruled against his client.

Because of this argument Judge Richardson, of Hustings Court, has agreed to consider the matter tomorrow. He will rule on the interpretation of the revised act.

Buchholz claimed he had sent the car to a repair shop when his chauffeur was arrested.

CHILD FATALLY INJURED BY AUTO

Robert B. Langley Dies at Hospital Six Hours Afterward

CORONER'S INQUEST

Hold Accident Was Unavoidable—Car Driven by Young Woman From Kansas City

Robert Boothe Langley, two years and nine months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lee Langley, who live near Hume Spring, Arlington County, was struck by a southbound automobile fifty feet south of Hume Spring shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and died at 6:30 o'clock last night at the Alexandria Hospital from injuries without regaining consciousness. The child suffered a fracture at the base of the skull. The automobile which struck the child was a big touring car marked Kansas City, Mo., and was in charge of a man giving the name of Dr. Butler. It was driven by a young woman apparently about twenty-four years old, said to be a daughter of Dr. Butler. In addition to the man giving the name of Dr. Butler and the young woman driving the car there were two other women in the car.

A coroner's jury summoned by Dr. T. M. Jones met this morning at 11 o'clock at Demaine's mortuary chapel and after hearing the evidence the two witnesses gave, both of them brothers of the dead child, gave a verdict to the effect that the accident was in their opinion an unavoidable one.

The verdict reads as follows: "He came to his death by being struck by an automobile while near Hume Spring about 12:15 p. m., July 19, 1920 and died at the Alexandria Hospital about 6:30 p. m., July 19, 1920 and the jury is of the opinion that the accident was unavoidable."

The jury was composed of Thomas Chauncey, foreman; C. Wingate Summers, Thomas M. Dunbarr, J. F. Poss, M. T. Burns, M. B. Shiflett.

Douglas Langley, eleven years old, brother of the boy killed, amid sobs told the jury that the car was driven by a young woman and that he was going to the spring for a pail of water being accompanied by his brother, having just left his father who was working in the field nearby, when a little brother ran away from him just as the machine approached and was struck.

Charles Langley, thirteen years old, another brother, testified that the driver of the machine endeavored to turn to the wrong side of the road in an effort to prevent hitting the child. The machine he said was not traveling fast.

The testimony of Dr. R. J. Yates was the effect that he was called to attend the child and brought the injured lad to the Alexandria Hospital. The boy he said sustained a fracture at the base of the skull and there were few external injuries. He added that the child was unconscious from the time it entered the hospital. Dr. Yates also said that he called in Dr. Moore to examine the child but nothing could be done for him.

Witness testified that a man who claimed he was Dr. Butler said his machine struck the child and added that the man said he was in no condition to treat the child.

IRISH BOMB SOLDIERS

Cork, July 20.—Two military lorries loaded with soldiers, which passed through the streets of Cork at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, were attacked by civilians with bombs and blown up. Between 60 and 70 soldiers were injured. The civilians threw 29 bombs.

This attack followed a night of terror into which the city was plunged as a result of street fighting in which Sinn Feiners and the military participated. Two men were killed and some 40 were wounded in the gun fighting, which brought the total of casualties well over the 100 mark.

RULES OF THE ROAD

Captain C. B. Samuels, of the Richmond traffic department, has announcing additional rules for drivers which are substantially embraced in the new traffic law of the city of Alexandria.

Among other things he says: "Every driver of a motor or other vehicle approaching an intersection shall grant the right of way at the intersection to the vehicle approaching from the right, providing that such vehicles are arriving at the point of intersection at approximately the same instant.

"Brakes, according to law, are in first-class condition when, going at ten miles an hour, should stop within nine and one-half feet. Fifteen miles an hour, they should stop within twenty feet eight inches, and at a speed of twenty miles an hour, a car should be stopped within thirty-seven feet."

Captain Samuels has laid down some safety commandments.

"When passing children, drive slowly, as they generally do the unexpected thing. In their play they are liable to dash suddenly in front of an automobile and the only way you can save them is to have your car under full control.

"Be considerate toward others using the street.

"Go slow passing other vehicles, going around corners and approaching crosswalks.

"Stop behind cars taking on or discharging passengers.

"Look ahead, and keep on the lookout for intersecting traffic.

"Better be careful than sorry."

Captain Samuels has enumerated the following as a safety code for all drivers, which will, if followed, minimize the number of accidents.

"Don't run fast into or across a main highway.

"Don't take blind curves too fast; the law is eight miles an hour.

"Don't pass street cars when passengers are boarding or leaving.

"Don't forget that a car or a person may be just around the corner.

"Don't forget that the other driver may be reckless or drunk.

"Don't fail to look out for pedestrians.

"Don't forget that children dash out suddenly and unexpectedly.

"Don't take chances.

"Don't drive into an uncertainty.

"Don't use a headlight with a glare or a dazzle.

"Don't allow bicycle riders to hang on your car.

"Don't cut in short after passing a car.

"Don't hog the road.

"Don't drive down a street five or six miles an hour looking for some one or trying to see everybody on the sidewalk and, at the same time, blocking traffic. This is reckless driving because you can't look at the people on the sidewalk and watch your driving."

FIFTY THOUSAND ARRESTS

More than 50,000 arrests were made in the first six months of constitutional prohibition just closed, Prohibition Commissioner Kramer's annual report will show.

Large percentage of arrests were made by local police and officials who are cooperating with Kramer, but are not directly responsible to him. The number of these arrests can only be estimated since reports are received only from federal agents by Kramer.

Total of 50,000 arrests would indicate that on an average of one in every 2,000 persons in the United States was charged with violating of the prohibition laws between January 16, when the Volstead laws became effective, and June 30, the close of the government's fiscal year.

This average, however, gives but an inadequate idea, federal officials say, of the actual number of violations of the law, since presumably a large number of violators were not detected.

The fifty thousand violators of the prohibition law referred to above represent but a small percentage of the persons believed to be engaged in bootlegging and manufacturing so-called whisky. At the July term of the Corporation Court of Alexandria several persons were indicted by the grand jury for having unlawful quantities of liquor in their possession, while others upon whose premises certain utensils and liquids which are believed to be used in distillation were found were also made to face the jury.

A negro was in the Police Court last night on a charge of using threatening language toward a negress. He was dismissed on that charge, when a second was preferred by the police who produced certain liquids found in his house which it is believed enter into the formula of intoxicants. As the grand jury could not have returned a true bill in his case, he was dismissed.

THE MILLS OF THE GODS

Few tears will be shed, even in Germany, over the tragic end of Prince Joachim, the youngest son of the deposed German Emperor. He was not the kind of princeling who becomes a popular idol either in prosperity or misfortune, though during the war a patriotic effort was made to invest him with heroic glory. A moral weakling, he was not fit to live a man's life, and debauchery and despair opened what seemed to him the only avenue of escape—the back door of self-destruction.

In spite of the pitiful character of this wretched offspring of disastrous royalty, there is a tragedy back of his act which was not of his making. It is the old inexorable law of the sins of the fathers. In this case, as in many others, the sins come back from the children, like a boomerang, and smite the guilty progenitor too. No need, it would seem, for the Allies to devise punishment for the former Emperor. Fate or Providence has taken charge of that. For the unhappy mother, innocent of all responsibility for the dreadful things which have come upon her, there can be nothing but compassion, and the hope that she may not be "stretched much longer upon the rack" of this rude world.—Baltimore Sun.

IN MEMORIAM

A tribute of love and memory to my dear wife Mamie Wood who departed this life one year ago today, July 20, 1920.

COUNCIL MEATS

Better Meats That Cost Less
No Waste · No Ice Needed
Always Tender
Ready-Cooked To Perfection

Only pay for the meat you eat—not for the trimmings and waste

WHEN you pay sixty or seventy cents for a piece of meat, a goodly part of it is wasted because you can't eat all the meat you buy. There are the fat and bones and trimmings—all paid for at the price of meat—and only a little of the fat can be used, the rest is just a loss. Besides which, uncooked meat contains much water that is lost in cooking—but you've paid for the water at meat prices.

But there is a way to overcome that loss, which is 15% or 25% of what you spend on meat today.

And that is by buying ready-cooked, wholesome and delicious Council Meats. There are many varieties of Council Meats—Veal Loaf—Roast Beef—oh, a host of good meat dishes—all so easily prepared! Why you'll be just a few minutes fixing the meat course for breakfast, luncheon or dinner.

But the goodness and the ease of preparation are minor advantages compared to the real economy you will find, in buying ready-cooked Council Meats instead of meat you have to trim and cook.

American Women Stirred by Armenian Horrors

Collecting grass to be eaten as food in Armenia. Thousands die after terrible suffering from eating grass.

"The starvation grin," so common in Armenia, as described by Mrs. Egan in her article.

MERCIFUL GOD, it's all true! Nobody has ever told the whole truth! Nobody could!"

Thus Eleanor Franklin Egan, in the Saturday Evening Post, quotes Howard Heinz of Pittsburgh, Herbert Hoover's representative in the Near East, on the real conditions in Armenia as he saw them with his own eyes. Mr. Heinz had been one of those who had believed the stories of starvation and death in Armenia had been exaggerated. Not until he went himself to the Caucasus did his views change. Then he was shaken to the foundation of his soul by what he saw. "Fearful! Awful! Horrible! Unbelievable!" are some of the adjectives Mrs. Egan says must be used in speaking of conditions in the Near East. Where Near East Relief, 1 Madison Avenue, New York, supported by contributions from the American people, is conducting the only organized effort to save the lives of those utterly destitute millions. Everything she saw and heard justified the necessity for quick and generous aid from America. Her story of what she witnessed re-enforces the call of the Near East Relief for aid for stricken Armenia.

"'The Hunger grin' is everywhere," Mrs. Egan writes. "The pitiful hundreds seemed to me to be weeping constantly. Not profoundly as in grief, but whimperingly, appallingly as in unbearable physical distress. A terrible population. Unspeakably filthy and tatterdemalion throngs; shelterless, death stricken throngs milling from place to place. Children crying aloud, women sobbing in broken inarticulate lamentation; men utterly hopeless and reduced to staggering weakness, heedless of the tears rolling down their dirt-streaked faces."

That is her picture of the Armenians most in evidence in Armenia. These are the throngs. Then she turns to the mobs. "Large numbers here and there, wide-eyed, eager, hands outstretched in wolfish supplication; teeth bared in a ghastly grin that had long since ceased to smile—an emaciated skin-stretched grin, fixed and uncontrollable."

"Is it any wonder," she asks, "that I could not swallow my food? I threw it to the children in the ravening hordes and started small riots. The children fought together, snarled and clawed at one another for small bits of army biscuit or morsels of bully beef.

"And then I was told that many of them were so starved that solid food was likely to kill them instantly. This was too terribly true. Yet in the whole length and breadth of the land there was not an ounce of food of the kind necessary for such cases. At Kars I saw one man die with bread in his teeth. And if you will consent to look with me upon a too awful thing I will add that he showed evidence of having eaten too much grass.

"I went hungry in Armenia, and I associate remembered pangs of my own with all my recollections of the terrible land. I had plenty of food with me, but for days on end I could not eat. It was a physical impossibility.

"And I came to a point, too, when to look upon things that had to be looked upon set my heart to quaking in a horror difficult to describe."

Of her first sight in Armenia of the terrible condition of the people Mrs. Egan writes of the scenes on her way to Kars:

"Everywhere in the fields there were people down on their knees searching for grasses to eat. Those near the railroad lifted their heads and gazed at our train as it rushed past, and I caught glimpses of terrible faces. An old man sitting at the top of an embankment waved a handful of grass at me where I stood at the car window, then threw his head back and laughed a maniacal laugh. I began then to feel the cold chills with which I was to shiver for days on end."

Of Kars she writes:

"It had been raining for days, and wherever one looked one saw nothing but misery and mud. Between the railroad tracks were unsightly pools and puddles, through which many human scare-crows trudged back and forth.

"They were a multiple Lazarus, and the train was the rich man's table. They were begging for crumbs. I began to hear for the first time the whining indescribable phrase that sounded to me like 'O-na-ne, O-na-ne.' It was so feebly, so plaintively murmured, 'O-na-ne.'"

Mrs. Egan asked what it meant and was told the nearest equivalent was "Oh, my soul!" "But," she says, "it was more than that; it was a prayer for mercy."

Describing a makeshift hospital before the arrival of the Near East Relief workers, Mrs. Egan writes:

"The sick in their unbelievable rags were lying around on the floors—bundles of unimaginable wretchedness. The doctor was not doing anything at all for them. What could he do? He had not so much as a single ounce of medicine of any kind. The little people were more pitiable than the adults. The ward, if I may call it that, had in it not one stick of furniture of any kind, and the children were all lying on the dusty and rubbish-strewn floor with nothing under them and no covering save the rags they wore."

"It Is Not Very Nice to Starve," Says Little Guest From Armenia

IRANEH ESTHER ARAXIE AZGAPETIAN.

This little Armenian has a name with a "history as long as the tail of a cat," she says. Daughter of a famous soldier, she often cried from hunger. Now she is in America and does not cry any more, she naively adds, but her mother cries, mourning for the thousands of other Armenian babies who are hungry, back in the native land. But little Iraneh smiles wisely, as she knows Near East Relief is aiding the poor people of Armenia.

I AM little Armenian girl. I have three years. My name has a history as long as the tail of a cat. I am called Iraneh Esther Araxie Azgapetian.

Iraneh, because I was born at Kazvin, in Persia, and that is a good Persian name. Near the Red Cross hut where I first opened my eyes was the tomb of Esther and Mardecai, so my father also named me Esther. Then, being a good Armenian, I had to have the name of our beloved river Arax. Therefore I am Araxie.

My father is General Mesrop Nevton, Than Azgapetian. He was with an army in the Caucasus mountains during the Great War. We were living just inside the city wall. I could hear the jackals at night howling, howling all the time. I howled too. My nurse said the jackals set me a bad example. My first nurse was a great big soldier. He belonged to the Russian army, which was encamped near us.

My mother tells me that she paid five roubles a day (that is $2.50 in American money) for half a loaf of bread. The bread was often full of dirt and splinters. One fine day my mother found a can of condensed milk in a shop and bought it for $8. That day I had a feast and did not cry at all. Several times my father was able to buy a salt herring, for which he paid $1.50.

I began to get very thin. My mother said she must take me away so that I would not die. We began to go away, but it took a long time. Everywhere there were people going. They mostly had no clothes, and often they would fall down. My mother said they would never get up again. My mother said they did not have the money to buy even the bad bread we had and they could not live without food. We traveled in an ambulance, on horseback, donkeyback and camelback, in a truck, a motor lorry and a cart—in fact, by every way except an airplane.

It was many months before we could come to America. There is much to eat here. I like America. I never cry any more. My mother cries. She says there are thousands of little children starving to death in our country. It is not nice to starve. I did not like it. It makes her sad. But some days she smiles. That is when my mother says she knows America will not let the little Armenian babies suffer or be hurt.

ARAXIE.

AID GOD'S POOR, SAYS MRS. DANIELS

By MRS. JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Wife of the Secretary of the Navy.

THE plight of the people of Armenia presents a tragedy inconceivable. Hundreds of thousands of the descendants of the earliest Christian race are now, because of their religion, undergoing sufferings beyond the imagination of civilized America.

During the war it is estimated that 1,000,000 Armenians, a third of the total population, were massacred. No barbarity in human history exceeds the gross cruelty of that destruction. Thousands were driven out upon the desert, there to die from hunger and thirst under the pitiless rays of a tropical sun.

MRS. JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

Such was the price which the Armenian people paid for their Christianity and their loyalty to the cause of justice and democracy during the world war.

One-quarter of a million children, chiefly orphans, whose parents perished in massacres, are utterly dependent on American charity.

Hundreds of thousands of refugees in the Caucasus, clad only in torn, verminous rags, without shelter and without food, can exist only if America has compassion upon them.

Shall we fail them? Not if I know my country!

Help Near East Relief in its work for God's poor.

not handle her production and it will take years to bridge this lack of rolling stock. In the mean time, the farmers, merchants and manufacturers are confronted with either a curtailing of production to meet transportation facilities, or the development of transportation, we include the motor truck which is the only carrier of commerce that can give relief.

The truck and its party of four left Alexandria at eight o'clock in the morning and took a route through Fairfax Courthouse and over the Leesburg turnpike through Leesburg, and thence to Middleburg. This road, which is considered the best through that section and which all road maps show as such, was in very poor condition. A heavy storm the day prior, no doubt, accounted for same. It took four hours and three quarters to make a trip there that should have been made in half that time.

On the return route, Little Falls Turnpike was taken. This road has a very good subsurface, but unfortunately, there was apparently nothing but subsurface, which made a rocky, tortuous trip. This sixty-foot highway will make a beautiful road when completed through a rich productive country.

Middleburg is situated seven miles from the nearest railroad, The Plains. It is, therefore, necessary for the farmers to either make this fourteen mile round trip and ship direct to the commission merchants, or sell to the so-called hucksters who canvas this section and in turn, sell to the commission merchants or retailer in town. At the present market, the farmer is securing approximately thirty-eight cents a dozen for eggs from such people. If he hauls them to The Plains and ships them by freight, it will cost about twenty-four cents per crate to send them to Washington, besides his trip and time he sacrifices. It is problematical when his goods will reach the commission merchant under the present railroad situation, rarely under several days. The express rate is higher, but there is no guarantee delivery in this case. In other words, the majority of farmers are selling eggs, chickens, etc., to people who make a business of buying them up and they, in turn, sell to the wholesale man, who sells to the retailer. It is a fact that most of these transactions involve three profits other than the farmer's.

At certain seasons, when crops become plentiful, it is almost impossible to realize that, with the price we pay, such seasonable products are going to waste in the fields and on the trees because of lack of transportation. This condition prevailed last year between Alexandria and Winchester with peaches and apples, and yet, the high cost of living prevails.

When we have a good highway, such as is about to be constructed along this route with the $200,000 allocated, and the $500,000 bond issue that Fairfax Courthouse will place before the people, it will open an artery of commerce with unlimited possibilities to the city of Alexandria, further the industrial, economical, social expansion of this city.

It will not be until then that the full proportions of ship by truck will be felt, as it is being retarded wholly on account of the highways. Mr. Longworth is centering his energy on the situation and assisting materially in furthering the good road issue that Virginia may rival her sister states in the Ship by Truck movement.

All of the party are enthusiastic over the results of the trip and the possibilities and what the future holds for Alexandria from that section, together with the development of this southern trans-continental route, the Lee Highway. Mr. Coffey has complimented by all the members of the party on the performance of the Garford truck over the adverse road conditions.

INCREASED PAY FOR ARMY MEN

Camp Lee, Va., July 20.—The first day of July saw the end of a temporary U. S. Army and everything in that army now is becoming of a permanent nature. On that date the reorganization bill went in to effect making many radical changes in the status and pay of nearly every grade from private to general.

This bill is considered the greatest and most beneficial army bill that has ever been passed by Congress.

The enlisted man is the greatest affected by the changes. Instead of the multitude of ranks and grades that formerly made up the enlisted strength of the army there are now only seven grades whose pay ranges as follows: 1st grade, master sergeant, $72; 2nd grade technical sergeant, $53; 3rd grade staff sergeant, $45; 4th grade sergeant, $45; 5th grade corporal, $37; 6th grade private 1st class, $35; and 7th grade private, $30.

Besides these grades there were several grades of specialists who are known as privates and privates 1st class but draw additional pay as specialists because of the special nature of the duties on which they are engaged.

Until 1922 a twenty percent increase on the rates of pay shown above is being paid to all grades with the exception of the sixth and seventh grades. The first three grades are entitled to and receive $16.50 per month in addition to their regular pay as extra ration money This is intended to benefit the married men particularly but both single and married men receive it.

Married men of the first three grades also receive transportation for their wives and families upon permanent change of station.

Reenlistment pay, as it has been known for the past few years, has been discontinued and now 10 per cent on the base rate of pay (that shown above) for each five years served until an aggregate of 40 per cent has been reached, no man being allowed to receive over 40 per cent of his base pay as reenlistment money.

A bonus, equal to three months pay of a man of the seventh grade is paid to every man reenlisting for 3 years or enlisting on his first enlistment for 3 years. When a man is enlisting on his first enlistment the money is paid to him at the end of the enlistment but if a man reenlists for three years he receives his bonus on the first pay-day following his reenlistment.

A man upon his first entry into the service may enlist for either one or three years while the man who reenlists must re-enlist for three years.

Provision has been made for the continuance and extension of the army school system throughout the United States and in the possessions of the United States.

Rates of pay of officers have been increased and a new rank has been established. The new rank is that of warrant officer. Any enlisted man with ten years service or over and who is a non-commissioned officer may take the examination for this rank a well as regular army enlisted men who served as officers during the war and field clerks.

As yet the provisions of the bill have not been completely put into operation. The size of the army having been increased it is surmised that the better pay and higher promotions of enlisted men will induce a large number of men to enlist and in that way the quota will soon be filled and the authorities have a definite number of men with which to work the changes of reorganization more rapidly.

Mrs. Hug Catches Mr. Hug.

New York, July 20.—Because she saw her husband Charles L. Hug, hugging another woman, Mrs. C. Hug, who believes that all Hugs should be hers, has brought suit for separation, and is asking the court to award her $40 a week alimony and $250 counsel fee. Hug charges in her complaint her husband has treated her since 1917, a year after they were married.

"On ... 1920," Mrs. Hug states, "the plaintiff encountered the defendant and an unknown woman whilst in the act of kissing each other."

Mrs. Hug also said that Hug spoke to her so "very infrequently" that he had caused her to become a nervous wreck.

EXPLOSION ON CUNARDER.

Aquitania Blows Off Stop Valve of Boiler, but Proceeds on Journey.

London, July 20.—An engineer was killed and a stoker injured on board the Cunard Line steamer Aquitania off the coast of Ireland yesterday, when the stop valve of one of the boilers of the steamship blew off, according ao a wireless dispatch received here.

The steamer reduced speed and made repairs, and then proceeded on her voyage for New York.

The Aquitania sailed Saturday from Liverpool on her first trip as a passenger vessel since the war. The vessel had been converted into an oil burner. The sailing of the steamer was delayed owing to a dispute on board as to whether one man should tend nine or twelve oil furnaces.

WOMAN SHOT LOVER

Clandestine Romance Ends With Attempted Murder and a Suicide

Chicago, July 20—Julius Jonas, brother-in-law of Leo Feist, New York music publisher, was near death here yesterday, the victim of a clandestine love with Miss Pauline Meglitsch, thirty-six years old, who committed suicide after shooting Jonas while they were in her home Sunday morning. Jonas early today was reported in a critical condition The bullet severed his optic nerve.

"He said he loved his wife and family more than he did me and that he was through with me," Miss Meglitsch explained in a note addressed "to the public" explaining her act. Jonas left his home Saturday ostensibly on a business trip to Kansas City. He paid a "farewell" visit to Miss Meglitsch before his train was due to leave. He intended it to be his last visit with his "soul mate." Jonas explained he was detained until after train time and arranged to pass the night in the Meglitsch home.

He refused an invitation to the girl's room, sleeping in an adjoining guest room. Early Sunday morning Pauline, clad in a nightgown, came into his room, fired a bullet into his head as he lay asleep, and turned the weapon on herself. Jonas' outcries aroused Pauline's sister, Helen, and her mother and they notified the authorities.

Mrs Jonas kept vigil over her husband all last night. "Of course, we will stand by my husband," she said. "He has been good to us." Before he was taken to the operating room, she forgave him. Jonas and his wife were recently reconciled after Mrs. Jonas sued for separate maintenance naming Pauline. The clandestine love began several years ago, according to authorities, when Jonas and Miss Meglitsch were employees of the Wolff Clothing Company in St. Louis.

DIVORCEE EXCLUDED

Rector of St. Ignatius Demands Excommunicant Leave Church.

Chambersburg, Pa:. July 20—Father Whalen, rector of St. Ignatius Catholic Church, in Buchanans Valley, near here, refused to proceed with mass Sunday until one of his former women members had left the church. She had been excommunicated for having obtained a divorce from her husband. In his remarks in asking her to leave the church, Rev. Father Whalen said:

"It is the unwritten law on the door of this church that no divorcee shall be admitted. St. Ignatius is too old to learn modernism. I'd prove unworthy to tread in the footsteps of our former pastors, the Jesuits, if I allowed such desecration to pause in our holy place. We've got to fight divorce tooth and tongue and where better begin than at the altar? This faded beauty was baptized here, married before our altar, her children baptized at our fount, but she can't be divorced at St. Ignatius.

The Cleveland Makes Good Because it IS so Good

"The Cleveland is in a class by itself." That's the answer from owners of the new Cleveland Six all over America.

The Cleveland has made good with the public in such a big way, because it is so good.

Men of engineering and manufacturing skill, and of high ideals, devoted three years to the development and perfection of the Cleveland Six before they offered it to the public. Experimentation was worked out in the Cleveland Company's laboratories and shops and in constant tests on the road; not in the hands of owners. So the Cleveland has made good.

The thousands of Cleveland Sixes that have gone out to owners since last July are performing as few cars, indeed, can perform. The power and life of its motor, its remarkable comfort in riding, the ease of handling, the beauty and graceful style of its body designs, the excellence of its finish and upholstery, truly place the Cleveland Six in a class by itself.

We cannot tell you how good the Cleveland Six is.
You must drive it and ride in it to know.

RICHMOND—"The Best of Luck."

The Richmond Theatre will offer as its feature attraction for today—Screen-Classics, Inc., picturization of "The Best of Luck." This is one of the photoplay sensations of the season, adapted from the celebrated Drury Lane melodrama which thrilled English audiences in London. An all-star cast appears in the "'Best of Luck." It is headed by Jack Holt, Kathryn Adams, Lilie Leslie and Fred Malatesta.

The story is intensely dramatic, filled with pulse-quickening climaxes and is, in short, one of those pictures which makes you hold on to your seat.

INGOMAR—"Teeth of the Tiger."

Lots of thrilling action is promised in "Teeth of the Tiger," a new Paramount-Artcraft picture recounting the adventures of Arsene Lupin, the famous French crook. It will be seen at the Ingomar Theatre today. David Powell plays the title role of Lupin. According to the story, the clever criminal turns detective in order to solve the mystery of the murder of a millionaire and tracks the guilty person after a series of thrilling adventures. Supporting Mr. Powell is Marguerite Courtot and a notable cast.

THOUSANDS FACE DISCHARGE

Ten Per Cent Reduction to Meet Increased Expenses, Say Officials

Philadelphia, July 20.—Between 11,000 and 12,000 clerks, shopmen and maintenance of way men, employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad in its Eastern region, will be dropped Wednesday or Thursday.

This action was decided upon at a recent meeting of the general staff of the railroad, when it was decided to lop off 10 per cent of those employed in the Eastern region because of increased expenses.

The district affected is bounded on the west by Altoona, on the north by Lake Ontario, on the south by Washington and on the east by the Atlantic Ocean.

The general strike threatened by leaders of railway labor unions because of the expected wage awards of the Railway Labor Board has nothing to do with the railroad's action, said officials of the Pennsylvania today.

"It is perhaps unfortunate," said one official, "that this order should come at the time when there is talk of a strike, but decision to take this step was made some time ago, and is in no way connected with the matters under arbitration."

Good Light Lightens Labor : :

Lighting the kitchen is like lighting a factory. Good lighting quickens production, as the factory man would say. In other words, it makes work go faster without the expenditure of any more energy.

Of all places needing more light and better light the kitchen in most homes is one of the most important. And when you have doubled or trebled the light in your work rooms, try it also in your living rooms.

If you find that doubling or trebling the illumination there mean glaring light, don't cut down the amount of lighting again—shade the light better! Keep the direct rays from striking the eye. Throw some of the light to the ceiling and walls.

In every socket —in every room from cellar to garret—use only

EDISON - MAZDA LAMPS

If you will do that, you will find that a great deal more light in the room is decorative, pleasing and restful. It's not the amount of LIGHT that you find irritating in some rooms, but the amount of GLARE.

OUR METER MEN REPORT THAT A NUMBER OF OUR CUSTOMERS ARE USING CARBON LAMPS. WHY NOT BE UP TO DATE? USE MAZDA LAMPS—BETTER LIGHT—LOWER BILLS.
